aged relative, and I do not know their history: yet I fancy they have some place in the annals of art, because I have seen numerous copies of them, smaller, and in plaster, clay and marble.

I should like very much to sell them to the Art Gallery: I am told that it has cost at least $100 each to cut these statues in Italy, but I do not profess to be a connoisseur, hence I should be very much indebted if you would request the Committee to look at them, or instruct me how to take the proper steps to have them inspected, with respect.

My dear Sir:
May I request you to call the attention of the Corcoran Art Gallery Committee on Sculpture, to a pair of figures (Italian marble) now in my possession? One is a girl, in a listening attitude holding to her ear, a human heart, as if counting its pulsations, the other is a boy, reading. They came into my possession through an

My husband has in his collection some portraits of extraordinary merit by Francis Hals signed by the artist and dated 1651 which he would be willing to sell to a public gallery provided he could realize something like its value. He was informed that a similar picture by the same artist was purchased by a gentleman of Cincinnati for the sum of ten thousand dollars ($10,000)

If you should entertain a thought of adding this valuable work of art to your collection you can at any time send a competent critic to examine it in person.

Dear Sir

According to promise I send you today prints from our half tone engravings made from negatives furnished by Mr. Rice. These prints are not quite finished on account of the haste required in production, but they will give you a fair idea of the capabilities of our new process. The cost of such work will be 50¢ per square inch for the plates.
The printing can be done by ordinary printing press in the same manner as a good wood

My dear Sir

Some years ago I made for you some sample plates illustrating some paintings in your Gallery but could not make them fine enough for your purpose. We have now succeeded in perfecting a process whereby a plate can be made directly from a negative without redrawing and have sent by same mail a pamphlet showing specimens of the new method, in the last half of it. If you care to experiment further the writer will be
